

I am a 95 year old woman who is using my grandson to act as my scribe. I am horrified at the thought of energy from waste. Throughout my life, I have seen many agendas pushed as being good for the environment and/or society, only to reveal years down the track as harmful and in many cases deadly. There is no need for energy from waste to be adopted, there are plenty of other ways to deal with alternate energy sources and waste. The long term effects of energy from waste are just too scary to imagine. I won't be around to see the consequences of decisions but mark my words, people will live to regret their actions. Unfortunately, like many other things, it will be too late to reverse the effects. My family should not suffer. Take it from this wise old woman, do not go ahead with this crazy idea. My words will live on.
