

Mining is such an important industry in Australia. With the employment of more than 200,000 people, it provides job security for families and creates much needed high skilled and high paid jobs for regional Australians.

The benefits extend directly to the support of regional economic activity, supporting local business through sourcing supplies locally and above this, the taxes and royalties from mining are what help deliver infrastructure and services to our communities, including roads, schools and hospitals.

As a current employee of Theiss, working in the mining industry for 5 years spread across 4 different mines I can safely say that I have never worked for a company that has been more committed to not only understand and comply with environmental obligations but also educate and empower people to take initiative on environmental management.

Since working at Mt Pleasant operations I truly believe that Theiss and Mach energy are focused on maintaining an effective global environmental management system and accountability for monitoring, measuring and reporting environmental performance.

The strong leadership and education of environmental objectives displayed by the Theiss and Mach energy at this mine have inspired me to respect the environment where we live and work.
