

To whom it may concern,

I object to the expansion of the Brandy Hill Quarry.

Three reasons. Koalas, traffic and economics.

The locality at the western edge of both substantial Koala foraging, and breeding habitat will be further compromised, along with the barriers to accessing these resources by crossing the adjoining roads which will be busier due to greater traffic movements.

Also the EIS detailed two different financial values that would provide economic benefit as a result of the activity and although I wish to support economic vitality in the rural/semi rural environment I query the true incentive to support the mine on this basis.

Yours Sincerely
Anarkali Papalkar
