dear pac. please take into account analysing the years that have passed to test the veracity of what each party has said here. also the willingness of drayton to compromise its plan for a neighbour not directly effected. the ex president of racing nsw owned arrowfield as I understand at that location and sold to coolmore. he was well connected to nsw gov & to know coal leases were in area. that horse business moved to scone as I understand it! please look at the time frame of these stud transactions and the active coal activity in the area. 500 mens jobs have gone from immovable resources now for 500 float, truck, plane mobile horses comfort it seems. compromise would have been the nsw govt assisting guarantee studs help and another site at horse cluster country to shift horses as needed for running of these businesses. too late now. these lands under the studs were never in danger from mining. behind the hills hidden still not enough! no prevailing wind. storms n golden highway noisier than mining. more dust coming off stud tractor in paddocks than from mine. dam stallion size hype, manipulation n shame of a result for a good business! coals just a bad name. wear it nsw if they all pac-up!
