I am writing my comments on paper about this Narrabri gas project, I compare it with the native veg act which is a disaster. The bushfires that raged out of control for months was a disgrace due to poor government regulations. If they can't get it right above the ground I have no confidence in trusting them below the ground. Good clean water is priceless for humans and animals and it should not be put at risk for short term gains

Please continue on back side.

Future generations will rely on this commodity to exist no amount of money could purchase the artesian basin it is that valuable

My final comment on this subject is don't interfere with the great artesian basin
