

From: Clare Strickland
To: IPCN Enquiries Mailbox
Subject: Expansion of Dendorobium mine
Date: Tuesday, 3 November 2020 12:11:23 PM

To the IPC members,

I am not a scientist or geologist.

I acknowledge all of your collective expertise on the board.

I do however have a passionate love of the environment, and as a registered nurse I have a lot of common sense.

To expand the Dendorobium or any other mine underneath the catchment area of Sydney's drinking water is a disaster waiting to happen.

Water leaks, contamination and potential for huge water loss are likely to occur.

Sydney is the only country in the developed world where mining is permitted in the water catchment area.

Please use your own common sense as well as your morals to know that this idea is wrong in so many ways.

Thank you for your time.

Clare Strickland

Elanora Heights

NSW 2101

Sent from my iPhone