Dear Sirs,

I urge you to please ensure that there is no further mining activity on Ravensworth Estate. This property is too valuable to lose to short-term mining activity that would destroy its heritage for ever. Just moving the homestead does nothing to maintain the value to future generations of all the significant sites across the property and would destroy the context of the whole history.

Also expansion of mining is not consistent with Australia's commitment to the Paris climate agreement and should be disallowed on this ground alone.

Rob Baigent.
