

Regis obviously think they can operate a mine at the location in Kings Plains without adversely affecting the health and lifestyles of its near neighbours. What if they cannot? What if they have miscalculated? What if their tailings storage facility fails? What if there is such a wet season the runoff is too great to control? What if they failed to plug the underground springs successfully? What happens when it blows a gale? What happens if their watering system breaks down?

The 87 families living within 2kms of the project site will suffer the detrimental effects of this approval.

The huge risk to the lives of these 87 families surely makes tis site unsuitable for a minig operation

Opposed to the mine application Andi Hunt