

My name is Dean Incher. I am a farmer in the Cooma district. I have good friends in the Kings Plains area farming close to the McPhillamy proposed mine site.

My family has been lucky enough to survive many droughts and we realise that in Australia water is our most valuable commodity. Knowing how lucky you are at Blayney to have the clean water from the Belubula River I find it staggering to think that its quality could be compromised by a mining and processing plant structured on its headwaters.

This site is unsuitable for farming.
