

Greg Cross- I have good friends who live within 2kms of the proposed McPhillamy mine at Kings Plains. I am well aware of the affect this proposal has had on them. For 10 years now they have been worried sick over the thought that a gold mine could be established beside their farm.

The fact that the DPE has approved all aspects subject to an IPC hearing is frightening.

The torture for them now is do they have any confidence that Regis can operate this mine and processing plant without affecting their noise levels, their air quality, their water table.

They have built up their cattle herd and maintained their home and farm looking forward to a peaceful retirement.

They along with their many neighbours adjoining the Regis Resources proposed site are at their wits end and as it seems the nightmare they've been dreading could soon become a reality.
