I am concerned about traffic, noise and pollution caused by access to the largest recycling plant in Australia with over 100 heavy vehicle trucks going through residential areas on a daily basis. The roads aren't adequate for this type of traffic and this large number of trucks will cause significant traffic jams, pollution and pressure on the roads.

The recycling plant will have to dispose of their waste and it will be an environmental and ecological disaster in a water catchment area that supplies Sydney's water and surrounding areas.

Not far from Moss Vale, is Kangaloon a registered Koala stronghold. The inclusion of heavy industry in Moss Vale will be the starting point for further heavy industry to move in and slowly but surely encroach on already fractured and fragile wildlife habitat. Rather than expand desperately needed Koala and wildlife habitat, this massive recycling plant and heavy industry will bring polluted water and air, excessive traffic and noise to an area that simply does not have the space or capacity to absorb all negative aspects of such a large, toxic, industrial site. And all this at tax payers expense!
