This is not the right location for this site. The developer is utilising Australian soil as a dumping ground with the benefits being sent overseas. We need to first consider our people and the impact this would have on them. The pollution and potential risks to the community alone should be enough to stop this development going ahead. The fact the developer has breached their own countries environment regulations and are now developing sites overseas would lead one to assume they intend on enacting the same practices in a different location rather than bettering their processes.

Our children and their communities are not the guinea pigs for international corporations to take advantage of for their own financial gain.
